Subject: RE: Congressional disclosure on fraud and corruption in OCSPP

Carol Ann,

I wish I was contacting you under better circumstances. I am contacting you in regards to the allegations of Scientific Integrity complaints made against me over the last few years. I would like to know the number of allegations that have been made against me and, if possible, what the specific allegations were. I am asking this to better understand the full spectrum of complaints that have been made against me. I have been alerted to these issues via private communications from a number of people including fellow staffers that Scientific Integrity complaints were made against me but I never received any written notification by anyone in the Agency with the exception of the

According to my present understanding, no other official Scientific Integrity complaints have been made against me. If this is not true and SI complaints were raised but dismissed, I believe it behooves me to understand as soon as possible the number of formal complaints received, what the alleged violation was, and why it was dismissed and not brought to my attention.

Thank you for your attention and understanding,

Dear colleagues – Your names appear in a letter sent by the Public Employees for Environmental Responsibility (PEER) to Representative Ro Khanna, Chair of the House Oversight Environment Committee. See attachment. The letter alleges instances of loss of scientific integrity within OPPT. Among other things, PEER asks Representative Khanna to refer these allegations to EPA's Office of the Inspector General.

OCSPP's Deputy Scientific Integrity Official, I am working with Michal and EPA's Scientific Integrity Official to identify next steps. In the meantime, I wanted you to be aware of this letter.

I also want to remind you of the protections afforded to whistleblowers. As you know, retaliation against whistleblowers is a prohibited personnel practice. 5 U.S.C. § 2302. To qualify as a whistleblower of protected disclosures, the employee must reasonably believe that the wrongdoing being disclosed has occurred; they do not need to prove the actual violation. I believe these allegations qualify as protected disclosures, thus entitling the four complainants to whistleblower protections.

We recognize the complicated and sensitive nature of this matter, especially because the complaint identifies OPPT scientists by name.

Subject: Congressional disclosure on fraud and corruption in OCSPP

Assistant Administrator Freedhoff:

Today, PEER filed a Congressional disclosure to Rep Khanna's office presenting evidence from four EPA scientists that we represent. The disclosure outlines disturbing evidence of fraud and corruption in OCSPP, involving deliberate tampering with chemical risk assessments conducted under TSCA, including PFAS, and the deletion of potential health effects without the knowledge or consent of the human health assessors.

We have also sent the information to the EPA IG. Attached you will find that disclosure.

Thank you for your attention to this matter and your willingness to address this issue.

Sincerely,

Tim Whitehouse, JD, MA
